Sluggish, fuzzy-brained, moody—just "blah"?

Mainstream Medicine DENIES This Energy-Sucking Syndrome

20-second quiz below may help you know if you have it... And discover the natural solution to sharpen your mind, revitalize your outlook, and put the spark back in your life.

"I'm already sleeping more soundly and coping with stress better."
– Jeffrey Carroll in Roswell, NM

Dear Reader,

Are you tired of being tired?

Like you're only half alive… Finding it difficult to concentrate… Never feeling like going out to dinner or even to the movies?

If so, you may be one of countless adults suffering with a mystery syndrome that's choking off your energy. In a minute, I'll ask you a few questions to help you know if you might have it.

ASS-BOGOUPTHL-PF

For example, do you find yourself going to the doctor more than you'd like? And often, do you leave frustrated because even he can't put his finger on what's going on? That could be one indication. Estimates show that this mystery syndrome is loosely responsible for 75–90% of doctor visits.

But, usually your doctor will just tell you it's an inevitable part of getting older.

So there's no pill he can give you. No shot in the arm.

But that doesn't mean there's no way to treat this mystery syndrome. Even reverse it. And:

- Resurrect your energy, waking up refreshed and revitalized…
- Lift the brain fog and dissolve the malaise…so you can feel on top of your game…
- Brighten your mood and outlook…relieving stress and restoring your sense of calm…

Over the next few minutes, I will prove to you—beyond a shadow of a doubt—that this condition is real. (Even though, if you're still watching, you unfortunately know that first-hand.) I'll ask you a few simple questions to help you assess whether or not you need help with it. And I'll share scientific studies and true stories of people—like you—who found real relief.

Are you a victim of this mystery syndrome?

Hi, I'm Angela Salerno, executive director of New Summit Nutritionals.

I'm reaching out to you because, right now, the mainstream medical community denies that this syndrome exists. But it's so important (to me andyou and the millions suffering needlessly) that it gets out in the open, where it belongs.

To let you know that no, it's not because you're getting older. It's not because you aren't taking care of yourself. And it's not just in your head.

Symptoms like fatigue, brain fog, moodiness, restlessness, trouble sleeping… They're all real. And they can indicate a bigger problem. Researchers estimate they affect millions in the U.S. and around the world. People that unfortunately don't know why it's happening to them. That have been led down too many wrong roads—or dismissed altogether.

So let me ask you a few questions, before we go any further…

1. Do you often have a tough time getting out of bed in the morning?
2. Has your sex drive declined?
3. Do you have difficulty concentrating?
4. Do you find yourself getting irritated with loved ones more easily?
5. Do you crave salty foods?

If you answered yes to most of these questions, then there's a very good chance you are one of the millions suffering in silence with this mystery syndrome.

The good news is that it doesn't take much to pull yourself out into the sunshine again.

Just a few key nutrients your body is craving.

Like the ancient Siberian secret, backed by modern research, that can reignite your energy, sharpen your mind, and may even help you get a good night's sleep.

One group of volunteers took it in a small double blind study. So they didn't know if they were getting the Siberian secret or a placebo. Yet a full 70% of the extract group guessed that they got the real deal—because they felt so much better!

And that's only the start.

Forget the endless cups of coffee and energy drinks. Put down that afternoon candy bar.

These carefully selected, scientifically studied nutrients can infuse each and every cell in your body with the fuel you need to blast through fatigue and fine-tune your brain power.

Here's what's really going on…

You see, there are two very small glands that live above each of your kidneys. They're your adrenal glands. And their job is to produce hormones like adrenaline and cortisol, in response to high-stress, life-or-death situations.

Adrenaline and cortisol give us temporary access to nearly super-human powers.

You've heard about a mother lifting a car off of her injured child? That would be adrenaline and cortisol at work.

First comes the "adrenaline rush" to help you get out of danger.

Then cortisol, known as the “stress hormone,” raises your blood sugar for a quick burst of energy and the sharpness of mind you need to recover from the dangerous situation.

When your body turns against you

Generations ago, this reaction came in handy. But these days you don’t have to worry about crossing paths with a saber-toothed tiger.

Instead, in today’s fast-paced world…our “tigers” become a traffic-filled commute. A frustrating news story. A bill that’s overdue. A doctor’s appointment coming up.

Even when the barista gets your coffee order wrong or your steak comes out overcooked. They all add up. Some of these things are obviously more stress-worthy problems than others but, layer after layer, they create a lifestyle of nearly unending stress.

You may not realize you’re stressed, but your body does.

And it starts to treat each incidence like a tiger attack. Responding by pumping out the stress hormone cortisol.

Eventually your adrenal glands get tired of producing cortisol…and your body gets tired of being awash with it. So you just…slow down. Quite simply, you burn through all your energy and your body doesn’t feel like making any more. Not without some help, anyway.

Caffeine, energy drinks, and sugary snacks can give you a quick, temporary boost in energy. But that’s not real energy.

These quick-fix solutions, while convenient, are really just squeezing more cortisol from your adrenals—working them even harder—and making the problem as a whole, worse.

The Mystery Syndrome…revealed

This mystery syndrome is called adrenal fatigue.

And it could be sapping your drive and energy. Disrupting your sleep. Fogging your mind and dampening your outlook.

But since the mainstream medical community isn’t talking about it, and your doctor probably won’t test for it…

No one’s had a complete solution. Until now.

But real relief does exist. And it all starts with the Siberian Secret—a uniquely powerful type of nutrient called an adaptogen.

When you’re stressed out and tired, adaptogens work with your adrenals and other glands, hormones, and chemicals to help rebalance your energy, endurance, outlook, and mental focus.

They help your body adapt to stress.

Adaptogens can help slow the unnecessary release of cortisol. This gives your adrenals a much-needed break, helps you out of your sleepy funk, and gets you back into action.

In short, the Siberian secret can help relieve your physical, mental, and stress-induced fatigue

This secret is called eleuthero. Sometimes it's called Siberian ginseng, because of how popular it is in that region.

But make no mistake, this is not the typical ginseng you'd find in the grocery store. It has different chemical components. Components with a history—and scientific backing—of helping the body cope with stress.

Researchers looked at more than 35 clinical trials, including 6,000 study subjects, ages 19 to 72.

These were otherwise healthy adults forced to work in stressful situations. Things like high temperature, loud noises, heavy physical burden, and working for long periods of time.

In every single case, subjects taking eleuthero had improved physical and mental capacities without the jitters you might get from coffee, or the crash you get from sugar.

Sharper minds, better memory, with the focus, energy, and endurance to take on the task at hand…without boiling over or deflating into mush

Another study looked at athletes taking 800 mg of eleuthero, and after only eight weeks…

- Their ability to turn oxygen into energy increased 12%...
- Their overall endurance improved by 23%...
- They showed improved cardiovascular function…

And, not a single unpleasant reaction.

To be fair, this was preliminary research done on a small group of young athletes. But even if you're not an athlete…

Think about what YOU could do with more energy…better endurance…and improved heart health

Would you dance more? Exercise? Spend more time woodworking or gardening?

Would you take longer vacations? Spend more time entertaining with friends or family?

Taking on your adrenal fatigue and winning means having the real, lasting energy and nutrient support you need to work through stress without needing a power nap, or feeling grouchy and defeated.

And, it means more time enjoying everything that you love.

But it gets even better.

Another study found that seniors taking just 300 mg of eleuthero daily had better mental health and social functioning after four weeks. That means eleuthero may also help support a strong immune system.

And, unlike sugar, caffeine, and other stimulants, your body doesn't build up a tolerance to adaptogens.

Eleuthero will be just as effective today as it will be a year from now—even 10 years from now—without you ever having to "up" the dosage to get the same benefits.

That's why 450 mg of eleuthero is the cornerstone of an exciting new formula from New Summit Nutritionals, called AdrenalSure.

AdrenalSure is specially designed to provide targeted support to help:

- Balance cortisol production—for physical and emotional stress relief you can feel.
- Natural energy and stamina—so you can fully enjoy the people and activities you love.
- Banish brain fog—so you can feel sharp, alert, and at the top of your mental game again.
- Support a healthy immune system—so you can feel your absolute best, each and every day.

And to ensure you're getting the most powerful combination of nerve-calming, energy-boosting adaptogens, we've combined eleuthero with one of the most revered herbs in the 5,000-year-old Ayurvedic medical tradition.

Another powerful adaptogen called ashwagandha.

The sacred herb of strength, endurance, and happiness

Ashwagandha has been used in Ayurvedic medicine for centuries, to promote a youthful state of physical and mental health and happiness.

Like eleuthero, it works to help you adapt to the ravages that stress can have on your body.

Studies show that this ancient herb can help…

- Boost your energy and vitality.
- Supercharge your stamina and endurance.
- Support a powerful immune system.

So, on those days where you just don't have the energy to get your act together, ashwagandha can help you take on stress and:

Get off the couch, get out the door, and get back to living!

I'm sure you know how hard it is stay mentally sharp and focused when you're stressed out.

But, in one study, animals taking ashwagandha maintained sharp cognitive function and 80% healthier brain cells than the control, when they were exposed to stressors.

Another study looked at what ashwagandha can do for strength and endurance.

And the results were amazing!

After only eight weeks of training, men taking 300 mg of ashwagandha, twice a day, were able to…

- Bench-press 101 pounds…the placebo group could only lift 58 pounds—a 54% difference.
- On leg-extensions men could lift 32 pounds, compared to 22 pounds in the placebo group—a 39% difference.
- Men even saw a substantial difference in the size of their muscles.

Study subjects also saw less exercise-induced muscle damage, they dropped more body fat, and even saw a four-fold increase in testosterone.

And they were taking just 300 mg of ashwagandha—AndrenalSure gives you 450 mg!

Plus, in another study, subjects taking 300 mg twice a day reported less stress and a better overall sense of well-being.

And if that's not enough…

Researchers in India also reported a 28% reduction in cortisol AND study subjects reported a 44% improvement on stress survey scores.

Remember, cortisol is the chemical your adrenal glands make when you're stressed—it's the primary cause of your adrenal fatigue. When your body is constantly flooded with too much cortisol, that's when you start feeling run-down, sluggish, and out of sorts.

And yet, doctors continue to ignore it. You'll never see cortisol on your routine blood work unless you ask for it. Even then, they'll ask, "Why?"

It's time to take your health back into your own hands.

And balancing your cortisol with ashwagandha is:

A great way to feel more energized and alive with a renewed sense of vitality

At New Summit Nutritionals, we never recommend a nutrient unless there is solid, peer-reviewed research behind it. Not just stories and anecdotes—HARD scientific evidence.

Our goal is to provide researched doses (or more!) of these nutrients.

That's because we want to help you reach new heights in your health using only the purest, highest quality natural solutions from around the world.

We scour the planet in search of real natural solutions that work—taking painstaking care to ensure that every single nutrient we consider is backed by scientific studies showing real results.

That's why we took our formula even further—adding yet another adaptogen.

Its name comes from the same Greek root as panacea and literally means, "all healing"

It's said that in the early 18th century, China spent three tons of silver a year buying this powerful healing root from Korea. But it's no wonder why…

Throughout history, it's been used to treat everything from exhaustion to better digestion.

But it's the modern, scientific, clinical research that landed this stress-melting adaptogen in AdrenalSure, because…

Panax ginseng helps sharpen your mind, boost your endurance, and combat the effects of stress

Like I said before, different types of ginseng contain different chemical compounds. And they do different things for your body. In the case of Panax ginseng… Call it oomph, call it gusto, call it vigor—studies show this legendary root enhances physical performance (including sexual), puts the pep back in your step, and helps your body adjust to the effects of stress AND aging.

In animal studies, a single dose of Panax ginseng boosted treadmill running time by 132%.

And, after seven days? It went up to 179%.

It's because ginseng actually works with your body—with the tiny little energy generators in each and every cell—to produce real, lasting energy called ATP.

When you eat food and breathe oxygen, your body uses them both to create ATP…it's the fuel that runs every single system in your body.

You don't eat, sleep, breath, speak, think—nothing happens without ATP.

Panax ginseng not only protects your tiny cellular energy producers, it helps them make MORE ENERGY

That means more energy and endurance for getting to that 18th hole or staying up to watch the game in overtime. It means entertaining a house full of guests without wanting to crawl into your bed midway through dinner. Heck, even making it to midnight on New Year's Eve!

In a nine-week, double-blind, placebo-controlled, human clinical study, 200 mg of Panax ginseng helped athletes turn more oxygen into energy.

If it's the mental stress that tends to wear you down, the 150 mg of Panax ginseng in AdrenalSure has you covered there as well.

A study in the Journal of Psychopharmacology shows that 200 mg of Panax ginseng can help keep your energy steady and your mind sharp and focused, even when your day is going completely off the rails.

Plus, even though ginseng can boost your mental and physical stamina...

You'll have no trouble "switching off" and getting a restful night's sleep

Because ginseng helps your body produce GABA.

GABA is a brain chemical that helps promote a natural sense of calm and better, more restful sleep.

So, you get the mental stamina and physical endurance you need to overcome adrenal fatigue—conquering each and every day without feeling completely wiped out…yet you can still get a recharging night's sleep.

Combined with eleuthero and ashwagandha, there's nothing life can throw at you that you can't handle…with balanced energy, a sharp mind, and a calm outlook.

That's why...

AdrenalSure is built on this powerful trio, fueling your energy and focus with natural adrenal support

AdrenalSure delivers everything you need to…

- Stay mentally sharp and focused even when you're under the gun.
- Power through your day with less coffee, sugar, or energy drinks—or a nap.
- Do more, see more, enjoy more, and approach every day with a positive outlook.
- Feel calm, cool, and collected no matter how stressful your day.
- Enjoy a restful and recharging night's sleep—all night, every night—waking up refreshed and invigorated.

Don't let your doctor convince you your symptoms are all in your head.

Don't believe your friends when they say, "Yeah, me too… We're getting old."

And don't resign yourself to a life of sluggish, fuzzy-headed fatigue.

Because, in a moment…

I'll show you how you can feel the AdrenalSure difference for yourself

But first I want to tell you about a few of the other clinically-studied nutrients in this naturally invigorating formula.

The first is called phosphatidylserine. We'll call it PS for short. It's a chemical made naturally in your brain and it's found in every cell membrane in your body.

As I've mentioned, the first step in reversing your adrenal fatigue is keeping those cortisol levels controlled.

PS has been shown to help balance cortisol levels in response to both mental and physical stress.

In two studies, 400 mg of PS a day helped not only lower cortisol levels, but it helped people feel less distress while undergoing mentally stressful tasks.

And in a 30-day study, 300 mg of PS per day helped study subjects feel less stressed and in a better mood.

While AdrenalSure delivers 150 mg of PS, the studies certainly indicate that each daily dose may help promote lower cortisol levels for less stress.

In short, it's one more way that AdrenalSure helps you combat adrenal fatigue—boosting your mood and ensuring your stamina

AdrenalSure gives you everything you need to conquer adrenal fatigue, control your cortisol levels, and feel more alive.

Ingredients like…
