their INDIGESTION, embarrassing GAS and clearer skin, a healthy immune system, even

Dear Friend,

“...it’s constant gas and bloating. I feel awful no matter what I eat and I’ve had cameras shoved everywhere trying to figure it out.”

That’s what a patient, we’ll call David, told me before I suggested one small, 10-second change in his daily routine.

He took my advice and when I checked in with him two weeks later, he was ecstatic.

No more bloating. No more gas.

He’s enjoying award-winning bowel movements... like clockwork.

Plus, not only does he have more energy, he’s feeling light and lean, and he can eat bigger meals without going to bed feeling full.

David’s story is not unique. The same 10-second change that’s working for David is working for hundreds of adults who were sick and tired of always feeling sick...

And tired... and full... and heavy... and gassy... and uncomfortable.

When it comes to getting older, they say the mind is the first thing “to go”. But if you ask me, it’s DIGESTION

It’s like the moment I turned 50, my stomach refused to tolerate anything spicy.

My patients have not only banished uncomfortable BLOATING... they have less aches, discomfort and stiffness.

Unless I wanted to spend the rest of the night spitting fire.

If you're over 50, you know what I'm talking about.

When you were in your 20s, you could eat half a pizza and wash it down with a 6-pack. But now ketchup is the closest thing to hot sauce your gut will tolerate.

Milk with your cookies? Nope.

Not without burps and cramps.

The older we get, the more limited our menu gets.

It's frustrating...and boring.

So, if you can't bear the thought of another plate of bland chicken breast, white rice, or mushy steamed broccoli...

If you've tried probiotics, made extreme changes to your diet, or you follow every meal with Tums, Prilosec or Pepto Bismol, I have some exciting news for you...

Starting as soon as your next meal, you'll be able to leave the dinner table without burping fire and without a brick in your belly...

And it doesn't matter what's on your plate—spicy, saucy, buttery or rich. You'll be able to enjoy every last bite...

Without clearing the room with the foulest-smelling gas...

Without waking up in the middle of the night with indigestion and fiery burps...

And, as the days and weeks pass, don't be surprised if...

- ✓ Your skin looks clearer...
- ✓ You have more energy...
- ✓ You're breathing easy...
- ✓ Your joints feel comfortable and limber...

So, get ready to pile on the pepperoni, drizzle on the butter, fry that chicken parm—even indulge in some cheesecake.

This one simple change takes less than 10 seconds a day. Doesn't require a prescription, a doctor's visit or a medical procedure...

It starts working almost immediately...

Costs pennies a day...

And it's not a probiotic.

Probiotics are great for But they probably WON'T DIGESTIVE PROBLEMS...

Probiotics have enjoyed their time in the spotlight.

They're one of the most popular pills on the supplement shelf.

It's not surprising.

The research on probiotics promises everything from better digestion and regular bowel movements to enhanced immunity...more energy and endurance...lower risk of cancer, and more.

If you've tried using probiotics to conquer your digestive issues...

If you're still burping up fire and spending more time on the toilet than you'd like...

Then you know that probiotics aren't the digestive cure-all they've been chalked up to be. And here's why.

Probiotics are live bacteria that live in your digestive tract—some 100 trillion of them, weighing in at a mind-blowing five pounds.

Lactose intolerance? Don't just cut out dairy, try THIS first.

I've always felt a little sad for people who can't eat cheese, enjoy a delicious bowl of ice cream, or a hearty spoonful of sour cream on their baked potato.

I get it. The near-instant cramps and pain and bloating are an easy reason to keep those foods off of your menu.

But, by cutting out dairy, you're also cutting out one of your most valuable sources of protein, calcium, vitamin B12 and vitamin D.

So, if the lactose in milk is giving you the belly pangs, the digestive enzyme lactase, found in each daily dose of Digeryxin, could provide the sweet relief you're looking for.

gut health. To solve your Here's why.

Probiotics do their best work in your intestines where they help you digest food, create vitamins and fight off bad bacteria that might seek to make you sick.

But the digestion processes actually starts in your mouth... and a LOT of things need to happen between your mouth and your intestines.

First you chew your food into smaller pieces and your saliva starts breaking down the starches in your food.

From there your food drops down into your stomach...

Where powerful digestive acids and enzymes continue breaking down your food into the basic nutrients your body will ultimately use for fuel.

From there, your small intestines take over, using more digestive enzymes to do the final conversions from food into fuel.

If any part of this process isn't happening perfectly, probiotics can't do anything about it.

Your digestive enzymes MUST do the lion's share of breaking down the foods you eat, LONG before they arrive in your intestines.

Otherwise, it's kind of like giving a big bundle of wheat to your baker.

Unless it's converted into flour first, you're not getting a cake.

Yet so many people are taking a daily probiotic in hopes of ending indigestion, reducing gas and improving their regularity.

Well, here's the other problem with probiotics.

Your stomach acids kill most of the live probiotics that pass through on their way to your intestines.

So, is it any wonder that using supplemental probiotics to "rebalance your gut" has done nothing to help solve your problems?

Well, the challenge gets deeper still...

But there IS a solution. And it couldn't be easier.

It helps your body during EVERY step of the digestion process...

It takes less than 10 seconds a day...

And you could feel a difference starting with your very next meal.

The renowned Cleveland Clinic reports:

“This balancing act is nat your body all of the time. Y to take probiotic suppleme

The 100 trillion little bacteria that live in your gut can be divided into more than 500 different species.

Each one has its own job and set of superpowers.

The idea is that, if things fall out of balance down there, probiotics can help correct that imbalance.

But that can only happen if you manage to choose the right combination of bacteria—and that’s nearly impossible.

There are more than 50 species of lactobacilli—one of the most common species of probiotic bacteria.

And there are more than 30 species of bifidobacteria, another common strain of probiotic bacteria.

With dozens upon dozens of lesser known, but equally important strains of probiotic.

That means there are literally millions of combinations at your disposal to help correct, rebalance, fortify or enhance whatever it is going on in your lower gut.

How could you possibly be lucky enough to choose the right combination of probiotics from your local supplement store shelf?

There are now services that will analyze your poop to give you a better idea of what’s going on inside of you.

That means scooping a bowel movement out of the toilet, boxing it up and sending it to a lab.

GROSS!

Beyond that, the chances of getting the right combination, without paying for a custom formulation, are almost zero.

And even if you DO get it right, it doesn’t solve the problem of what’s happening in your stomach!

Let’s not forget that the sole purpose of digestion is to turn the foods you eat into the fuels your body needs to live.

And when that process breaks down in any way, the other parts of your body have to work harder...

Digeryxin is about to put more of on your menu—fried, buttered, spicy It takes just 10-SECONDS to take it

Eat all of the foods you've been missing...without the Digeryxin provides the 13 most critical digestive enzymes your body needs to break down, digest and absorb the nutrients in everything you eat.

Enzymes are made by your body to help chemical processes happen faster and easier. And the digestion process is basically a series of chemical reactions.

Without enzymes, it would take literally years (or longer) to digest a steak, a plate of meatballs, or your morning eggs.

(If you feel full after meals...just imagine if your body didn't make enzymes.)

Fruits and vegetables are supposed to be great for me— why does my stomach hate them?

Fruits and vegetables are one of the best sources of nutrients. That's why aim for 5-7 servings a day.

But all of that sugar, fiber and, in some cases, acid can really do a number on your stomach. Here's why.

When fruits and vegetables are first picked, they're packed with naturally occurring digestive enzymes.

But the moment after they're picked, those natural enzymes immediately start to break down. And, believe it or not, some produce is stored for up to a YEAR before they hit your grocery store.

So by the time you bite into that apple, there may be no enzymes left.

But the targeted enzymes in Digeryxin can help replace those enzymes.

Helping your body digest all of your favorites with total ease and comfort. While ensuring you get optimal nutrient absorption—boosting energy, fortifying the immune system and fueling your body.

Feel the difference for yourself. Turn to page 23 now and learn how you can claim up to TWO FREE BOTTLES when you order today. Or, for fastest service, call 1-800-439-0551.

your favorites back and decadent. with your meal!

painful, stinky, embarrassing aftermath.

But what if your body isn't producing enough enzymes?

Here's a newsflash: it's not.

Once you hit 50, your enzyme production is down by about half...and it only gets worse.

Without these enzymes, partially digested food moves right through your stomach and into your intestines...

And you get the telltale bloating, gas, and diarrhea of poor digestion.

That's why digestive enzymes are 100% required to digest and absorb your foods.

Centuries ago, we didn't have to rely on supplemental enzymes. Because freshly picked fruits and vegetables come with their own enzymes to assist the digestion process.

But, once they're cooked or processed, the enzymes quickly break down and disappear. Forcing your body to rely solely on its own enzymes for digestion.

And research shows that this chronic need to produce enzymes can have a dramatic, negative impact on your health.

Because your body is using more resources to produce enzymes and digest food and less resources to produce energy, repair tissues, and fight disease.

So, it's no surprise that in a large, placebo-controlled study, patients taking a digestive enzyme reported less abdominal pain, nausea, vomiting, heartburn, bloating, and gas.

What about eating fresh fruits and vegetables?

Believe it or not, some fruits are harvested and stored for weeks, even months, before they reach your grocery store shelf. And you might keep them another week before eating them.

Apples and pears are sometimes stored for a full year!

By then, their natural enzymes have disappeared almost completely... along with a lot of their nutrient value.

Frozen produce manufacturers will tell you their products are "flash frozen" for "freshness".

What they don't tell you is that frozen produce is often blanched first, specifically, to inactivate enzymes (to prevent spoiling...which is, essentially, the fruit digesting itself).

So, those frozen peas and carrots still aren't as good for you, or as easy to digest, as something right out of the garden. But it gets worse...

You're already getting duped from even the healthiest foo

→ Today's most common fruits and vegetables have 38% less nutritional value than they did just 30 years ago

A landmark study, published in the Journal of Nutrition, revealed that 43 of today's most common fruits and vegetables have lost as much as 38% of their nutrient content between 1950 and 1999.

That research ended more than 20 years ago. Which tells me, we're getting even less nutrition from today's produce.

An analysis published by the Kashi Institute found that 12 different vegetables had 27% less calcium, 37% less iron and 30% less vitamin C.

Another study revealed that you'd have to eat EIGHT oranges to get the same amount of vitamin A our grandparents got from just one.

Meanwhile, your body's ability to extract those nutrients gets less and less every year.

That's why it's more important than EVER to get every bit of nutrition from your foods.

And the ONLY way to do that is by giving your body a steady supply of targeted digestive enzymes supplies you with 13 of the most critical enzymes you need to break down tough proteins, dissolve sugars, soften fiber and cellulose, and absorb healthy fats...

Each daily dose of Digeryxin

So you can...

✓ Enjoy a nice steak dinner without feeling full for HOURS...

✓ Pour hollandaise on your morning eggs, without the gas, cramps and "dairy burps"...

✓ Splurge on a plate of spicy Buffalo wings... and sleep through the night without feeling like your chest is on fire...

✓ Feel alive, awake and energized after any meal... instead of heavy, tired, and lethargic...

When your body has the tools it needs to digest your meals into their basic nutrients, you'll start to feel a difference almost immediately.

Food is fuel for your body. Digeryxin can make sure you're getting the most fuel...with the least effort

But it's not just about fruits and vegetables. Fats and proteins are just as critical.

But, they're even harder out of NUTRITION ds on the planet...

on your body because, unlike produce, they never come with their own digestive enzymes.

I'm talking about steak, chicken, fish, cooking oils (even healthy ones like olive, coconut and avocado oil).

A full-spectrum, targeted digestive enzyme like Digeryxin is the best way to ensure fast, comfortable and efficient digestion.

Each enzyme in Digeryxin has one job. And they each do their job extremely well—it's called enzyme specificity.

That means, when you take Digeryxin, before a meal, no matter what's on your plate, you'll have the support you need to...

✓ Turn rice, potatoes, breads and cereals into glucose, the basic sugar your body uses for fuels

✓ Break down meats and other proteins into the amino acids you need to build and repair muscles

✓ Dissolve and absorb fats and fat-soluble vitamins like A, D, E, K, as well as essential fatty acids like omega-3s.

✓ Soften indigestible fiber in vegetables like broccoli, asparagus and beans (the vegetables most notorious for excessive gas)

✓ Avoid the cramps, bloating and diarrhea associated with dairy, wheat and gluten

Some people notice a difference starting from their very first meal.

But it gets even better. Doctors have reported using multi-enzyme formulas, like Digeryxin, to help promote a healthy inflammatory response...

To help support clear skin and promote easy breathing and healthy lung function...

And to help end the very problems I've been telling you about—indigestion, gas, bloating and more.

Plus, one placebo-controlled study showed dramatic reductions in uncomfortable indigestion, heartburn, bloating, flatulence, and loss of appetite after just eight weeks on a multi-enzyme supplement.

Digeryxin has the enzymes your and absorb EVERY bite of EVERY fo

Amylase and glucoamylase: These two enzymes work together, starting in your mouth while you're chewing, converting starches into glucose so your body can use it for fuel. They've been shown to reduce stomach upset, bloating, loose stool, heaviness and lethargy. Plus, if your body isn't producing enough of these enzymes, the probiotics in your colon will literally ferment undigested sugars... leading to gas, cramping and diarrhea.

Invertase: Like amylase and glucoamylase, invertase also helps break down sugars—most specifically, it turns sucrose into fructose and glucose. Sucrose is what you and I would call common table sugar. As you probably know, table sugar is among the worst things you can put in your body. So it's not surprising that invertase's ability to digest sucrose, is associated with healthy aging, boosting the immune system and acting as a potent antioxidant.

Protease, Protease 3.0 and Protease 6.0:

These enzymes are made in the pancreas and help you digest proteins and turn them into essential amino acids. Your body uses amino acids to create vital brain chemicals, build healthy new muscle, produce collagen and elastic, for healthy skin and connective tissue, support metabolism and detoxification, regulate immune function and more. Specific proteases may also be helpful in reducing symptoms associated with wheat and dairy intolerances.

Cellulase, Hemicellulase and Beta-glucanase:

Your body can't digest fiber. And that's a good thing. Fiber helps keep your digestive tract clean, speeds up elimination, improves regularity and feeds your beneficial probiotics. The probiotics make fatty acids that play critical roles in immune function and colon health. High-fiber foods like broccoli, asparagus, and beans are notorious for causing excessive gas. These embarrassing symptoms keep many people from eating these foods—but they have SO many healthy benefits. Cellulase and hemicellulase can help break down fiber making it easier to digest... while cutting down on the “room clearing” side effects.

body needs to break down, dissolve od in EVERY meal you eat

Lipase: Is one of the most important enzymes. Lipase is typically made in your pancreas, but production takes a dive, so does your ability to absorb critical fat-soluble nutrients such as essential fatty acids and vitamins A, D, E and K. Lipase helps improve fat digestion. That means a little extra help with greasy foods, fried foods, and other heart-burn-inducing foods.

Lactase: Lactase has one job...helping you digest the lactose found in dairy products. You've probably heard the term, lactose intolerance. And the older you get, the more likely you are to suffer from it. It's what happens when lactase levels decline and your body's inability to digest dairy products leads to cramps, bloating, gas, and diarrhea. And while removing dairy can correct the problem, it can also lead to calcium deficiency. In placebo-controlled trials, supplemental lactase has been shown in to significantly reduce gas and bloating in lactose intolerant adults.

Alpha-galactosidase: This is about to become your new favorite enzyme. You probably know (and have suffered the consequences) what happens when you eat foods like beans, broccoli and Brussels sprouts. Well, alpha-galactosidase, an enzyme not normally found in your intestines, helps reduce the most embarrassing of them all...the horrific-smelling gas they can cause. Two double-blind, placebo-controlled trials showed that supplemental alpha-galactosidase can help reduce gas, bloating, and abdominal discomfort.

Phytase: This amazing enzyme helps you extract and absorb vital minerals, like magnesium, calcium, iron and zinc, from corn, seeds and grains. So, not only does it improve digestion, it helps promote bone health, reduces acid build-up and toxic, heavy metal accumulations in your digestive tract.

FAQs: Everything you about Digeryxin...

Q: Who should take Digeryxin?

A: Anyone plagued with uncomfortable gas, cramps, bloating or indigestion following a meal. Digeryxin's 13 targeted digestive enzymes have been shown to help replenish the body's own enzymes—helping you digest sugars, fats, proteins and fibers quicker and more effectively. Ensuring optimal nutrient absorption and more comfort and regularity.

Q: How does Digeryxin work?

A: Digeryxin combines 13 powerful, natural digestive enzymes, each devoted to a different type of food (i.e. starches, proteins, fats, etc.). Because the body produces fewer natural digestive enzymes as we age, Digeryxin can help replace and replenish natural enzymes, restoring digestive comfort and efficiency.

Q: How long before I feel a difference?

A: Everyone's body, health, needs and expectations are different. Some people notice a difference starting with their very first meal. While others require several days or weeks. However, when taken every day, like a multivitamin, Digeryxin works to ensure your body has the tools it needs to digest, dissolve and absorb foods more efficiently.

ou need to know

Q: My digestion is already pretty normal. What can Digeryxin do for me?

A: Research shows that many of today's foods lack the nutritional content they had just 50 years ago. In fact, you would need to eat EIGHT oranges to get the same vitamin A content your grandparents got. That means it's more important than ever to make sure you're getting optimal nutrient absorption. Digestive enzymes can help ensure you're extracting the highest possible nutrient content from the foods you eat.

Q: Once I place my order, how long will it take to arrive?

A: Orders received before 1:00 p.m. PST will ship the same day. Orders received after 1:00 p.m. PST will be shipped the following business day (excluding holidays). All orders are shipped via USPS, and are expected to arrive in two to five business days from the ship date within the 48 continental states.

Q: How often should I take Digeryxin?

A: The recommended dosage is two capsules once a day. You can take one in the morning and one in the evening. Or both at the same time. It could take a little experimenting to determine the best time of day to ensure Digeryxin is best meeting your needs.

Q: I took Digeryxin exactly as directed and I'm just not getting the results I expected—what now?

A: Digeryxin is backed by an unconditional 100% customer satisfaction guarantee. You have a full 90 days to decide if Digeryxin isn't for you, so we urge you to give it several weeks before deciding it hasn't worked. But if you're not completely satisfied, contact Customer Service at 1-800-439-0551, from 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. PST, Monday through Friday, and they will issue a prompt and courteous refund.
